

Please help save the Liverpool Plains

The Liverpool Plains is an extremely important foodbowl of Australia - reliably producing crops yielding 40% above the national average. It is also in the Namoi Catchment which is an important catchment area for the ailing Murray-Darling river system.

It is currently being explored for coal and coal seam gas. If you care for your supplies of fresh local food, the health of the Murray-Darling Basin and ultimately the Great Artesian Basin, please sign this petition.

The Carroona Coal Action Group has a new petition available to sign on-line. Please support this vital initiative and also send the link to your contacts.
